PRIVACY INFORMATION FOR YOUNGER USERS

13 or older? Try our 13-17s’ version instead.
18+ or want more information? Check out the full version here.

To help keep you safe online, we want you to know your data privacy rights and how we use and protect information about you.

Too much info? Don’t understand?
Speak to your parent or guardian (the person who looks after you) about staying safe online. They can always ask us for more information by emailing musicinfo@sonymusic.com or reading the grown-ups’ version here.

WHO WE ARE
We are Sony Music Entertainment UK Limited. We’re part of bigger group of companies called Sony Music Entertainment.

We work with singers, musicians and artists to bring music, videos, podcasts and other content to fans around the world.

WEBSITES & CONTENT
Our websites and artist sites are designed for teenagers aged 13+ and adults. If you’re under 13 years old, some of the music, videos and podcasts on our sites won’t be right for you.

Even if you feel more grown up than your age, keeping you safe is our top priority, so if you’re under 13 years old please ask your parent or guardian (we’ll call them ‘your adult’) to check the site or content first, and then explore it together if they say it’s okay.

And remember, whatever you’re doing online - whether you’re on websites or social media, or messaging or gaming - if anything or anyone makes you feel uncomfortable or upset, tell your adult straight away.

YOUR DATA PRIVACY RIGHTS
Even though we don’t collect under 13’s personal data, we still think it’s important that you know your data privacy rights, just in case you’re sharing your details on other sites or apps.
Not sure what ‘personal data’ is? It’s information about you that another person or a company can use to identify you (like your name, email address, where you live, your birthday, or a picture of you).

If you’re under 13 no company should be collecting personal data about you unless your adult tells them it’s okay first.

When a person chooses to receive updates (also called ‘marketing’) about something online, they usually do that by giving their email address and ticking a box to say ‘yes’. That’s called giving ‘consent’. But you can always change your mind. You can email the company who are sending you emails and ask them to stop. If you’re under 13, it’s best to get your adult to do this for you. Or there should be an ‘unsubscribe’ link in their emails, which you or your adult can click to let the company know you don’t want to receive updates anymore.

If you’re under 13, you can ask your adult to contact any company for an easy-to-read copy of the personal data it holds about you. If the information is wrong, your adult can ask them to fix it. And your adult can ask them to delete or stop using your personal data.

You and your adult also have the right to complain to your country’s ‘data protection authority’. In the UK, that’s the Information Commissioner’s Office (or the ICO). Here’s a link: https://ico.org.uk/make-a-complaint/.

If you want to learn more about data privacy and your rights, please talk to your adult, and have a read together of our more detailed privacy notices here.

And here’s a link to a helpful page on the ICO’s website: https://ico.org.uk/your-data-matters/.

WHAT DOES SONY MUSIC KNOW ABOUT YOU?

If you’re under 13 years old, we won’t knowingly collect any personal information about you. That means we can’t identify you from the information we have.

If you’re under 13 please don’t sign up to receive marketing updates or enter one of our contests. We’ll delete your information straight away, so you won’t receive any newsletters or be entered into any prize draws.

We know you love music but if you want to get updates about your favourite artists please talk to your adult first. If they agree it’s right for you, they can sign up to receive the updates instead, and you can enjoy the content together.

COOKIE DATA

This part is a bit complicated. You might want to read it with your adult to make sure you understand.

We won’t collect personal information from you, but we do use “cookies” on all our websites. A cookie or pixel is a small text file or line of code that is ‘dropped’ on your phone, tablet or computer whenever you visit one of our sites. It helps us learn about who is visiting our sites and why, which helps us build the best experience for music fans. It also means we can show older users online adverts we think they’ll like, but only if they choose to see that type of advert.

We need consent to place cookies on your device. You’ll see a cookies banner at the bottom of all our sites. Ask your adult for help as we’ll need them to say it’s okay for us to use cookies. They can do that by clicking ‘Agree’ or closing the banner by clicking the ‘X’, or continue to use the site with you.

If your adult wants to change their mind or doesn’t agree to cookies at all, they can change the internet browser settings, but this can mean certain parts of our sites may not work properly. They can also use the browser settings to delete cookies that have already been set (it might be called “clear history” or “clear cookie cache”). The ‘Help’ function on the browser should tell them how.

To keep you safe, please always speak to your adult before changing the cookies settings on any website you visit.

If you want to know more about cookies, please talk to your adult, and have a read together of our more detailed privacy notices here.

A SPECIAL NOTE TO PARENTS & GUARDIANS
This privacy notice has been drafted for children to understand. We encourage parents and guardians to read our full privacy policy here (intended for users aged 18+). While we do not knowingly collect personal data of children under the age of 13, parents and guardians should supervise their children's online activities and consider using parental control tools available from internet browsers, online services and software manufacturers that help provide a child-friendly online environment. These tools can also prevent children from disclosing online their name, address, and other personal information without parental permission.

Some content on our sites is not appropriate for younger fans. We encourage parents and guardians to explore an artist’s site and its contents first, before allowing under 18s to view it.
